VIRTUAL CS RESEARCH SYMPOSIUM

SACM and WACM presents a virtual research symposium to facilitate connections and conversations between members of the UW-Madison Computer Science community. Graduate students and undergraduates involved in research are invited to present their work through presentations, lightning talks, and/or poster sessions. There will also be keynote talks by the faculty. We look forward to having an exciting event for networking and getting to learn about the research of fellow students and faculty. We hope to see you all there!
